*Dues and donations to SACPA are not tax-deductible except as ordinary business expenses. When funds allow and as need arises to protect the livelihoods of our members by ensuring the best available science is considered, SACPA occasionally submits professionally written comments to regulatory agencies regarding issues such as endangered species listings and other proposed regulations. Such comments require expenditures that exceed the revenues generated from our low membership dues. You can help cover these costs with a tax-deductible contribution by enclosing a separate check payable to ACIREF (a recognized 501 (c)3 corporation) and write "Endangered species research" in the memo line. Submit this check to SACPA with your membership application.
